50% honey, ginger, thyme, licorice, mint.
Lungs Cleanse capsules, 60 per jar.

OFFERS

A pack of 2 × 60 capsules + 1 syrup, free delivery, cash on delivery.
Single products, some at −10%.

THE JOB

Static ads for Meta, 1080 × 1350, written in French and Darija for Morocco, then adapted to English with the help of AI.

The challenge: sell a supplement nobody has seen

product photos at the start

TRUST

Shoppers fear fake supplements and paying for something that never arrives.

RULES

A supplement can’t claim to treat or prevent, and Meta bans copy about the viewer’s health.

ANDROMEDA

Meta groups look-alike ads. Only real variety in angle and format gets tested.

Phase 1 — From research to ads

COMPETITOR RESEARCH

Every competitor sells “detox”.

→ Lead with herbs grandma already used.

REAL COMMENTS

Families soak honey and ginger overnight.

→ Show that remedy next to one spoon.

REAL COMMENTS

People say “dust and humidity”, never “pollution”.

→ Damp walls and closed windows, in their words.

PRODUCT RESEARCH

Home remedies taste awful. The syrup is 50% honey.

→ Tastes of honey, not medicine.

The One Idea: grandma's remedy, already in a spoon

"Moroccan homes already make this remedy: honey and ginger, soaked overnight."

So the ads don't sell a new idea. They sell the shortcut: the same remedy, measured into a spoon, with no medicine taste.

Phase 2 — Turn the insight into one ad

1 HOOK
A recipe everyone already trusts

2 PROMISE
“One spoon”, the only amber words

3 PROOF
Messy jar vs clean bottle, side by side

4 TRUST
Price, cash on delivery and ONSSA in one bar

5 ACTION
The only warm button on the ad

The visual system: home and honey, not pharmacy blue

TEAL #12464C

Fresh air and plants, calmer than medical blue.

CREAM #F4EFE6

Home, kraft paper, honey. Not a cold clinic.

AMBER #E8A940

The product's color, used only on buttons.

RED, ONCE

One sticker per ad: free delivery or −10%.

Readex Pro Arabic and Latin, built for screens

Caveat only for human notes

Phase 3 — Eight angles, 52 ads

Angle	Example	Ads
Intrigue · nostalgia	“Grandma’s recipe takes a whole night. This one, one spoon.”	6
Pack · direct response	Same hooks, with the pack and free delivery	6
Call-outs and desire	Taxi drivers, bakers, builders, waiters, the stairs	9
Product info	Feature lists, callouts, trust chips, review card	6
Single products	“Team Spoon or Team Capsule?”, some at −10%	7
New formats	Notes app, WhatsApp questions, price per day	6
Fear and pain	Fake products, Chergui dust, damp walls, paying blind	6
Smokers and ex-smokers	“No syrup erases 20 years of smoking.”	6

Not one ad: three different reasons to stop

Each angle speaks to a feeling or a daily setting the audience already knows.

JOB CALL-OUT · BAKERS

MEMORY · CHILDHOOD SYRUP

SEASON · WINTER AT HOME

The hardest audience: smokers

No “detox”, no repair promise. The ads swap a habit, the morning cigarette, for a spoon of honey, and say plainly it won’t help you quit.

HONESTY IS THE HOOK

Phase 4 — No photo shoot, so every slot got a written brief

PROMPT

Setting, light, framing, ratio and what to avoid

REFERENCE

The real product photo, to keep labels close

REVIEW

Garbled labels, ashtrays, wrong pack counts flagged

Persuasive, but safe to run on Meta in Morocco

ON EVERY AD

- Cash on delivery, ONSSA, free delivery
- “Food supplement for adults, not a medicine”
- Caffeine noted on every capsule ad
- Real ingredients, never “100% natural”

NEVER ON ANY AD

- Claims to treat, cure, cleanse or repair
- “Do you have…?” copy about the viewer’s health
- Invented reviews, before and after, children
- Lit cigarettes or smoking shown as normal

The test plan: compare angles, not single ads

Angle	Ads live	Cost / order	ROAS
Intrigue · nostalgia	2–3	[CPA]	[ROAS]
Pack · direct response	2–3	[CPA]	[ROAS]
Call-outs and desire	2–3	[CPA]	[ROAS]
Product info	2–3	[CPA]	[ROAS]
Single products	2–3	[CPA]	[ROAS]
New formats	2–3	[CPA]	[ROAS]
Fear and pain	2–3	[CPA]	[ROAS]
Smokers and ex-smokers	2–3	[CPA]	[ROAS]

4–5

days per round, then read by cost per order

The winning angle gets new versions. AI labels get swapped for the real product label.

A repeatable creative system

Find the belief, brief one idea per angle, produce in batches, test angles, then build on the winner.
